COUNCIL TO ACT ON CENTER ST. CLOSING

City councilmen will act tonight on the petition of the Samson Tractor company to close Center street from Franklin street east to the river, a stretch of one and one-fourth blocks. J. A. Craig stated today that the petition was in readiness for submission to the council, the required number of signatures of property owners on Center street having been secured.

The Samson company asks that that portion of the street be vacated to permit present foundry on River street to be doubled in size. This will mean its extension across the foot of Center street into the property formerly owned by Plowright & Menzies, coal dealers.

The petition to close several short streets on the Samson property in Spring Brook will not be presented for several weeks, Mr. Craig said.

A report of the special committee appointed to make a city contract with Mercy hospital for the handling of emergency cases is expected to be made tonight, together with a report of the lighting extension program committee. The matter of appointing a city plan commission, and other members of the council and other citizens may also be brought up for discussion.

BEEKEEPERS TO HOLD MEETING IN MADISON

"Wisconsin has fewer honey crop failures than any other state," says H. F. Wilson, secretary of the Wisconsin Beekeepers' association. "This is particularly true of upper Wisconsin, where the possibilities of beekeeping have not begun to be realized."

"We, however, have two sources of heavy loss. Both of these, the better wintering of the colonies and the controlling use of diseases, will be met when all the beekeepers learn their importance. As soon as foul brood is cleaned up in the state, beekeeping will begin to be a big industry."

At the convention of the Wisconsin Beekeepers' association in Madison, December 4-5, the different phases of modern beekeeping practice are to be discussed by owners of apiaries in various sections of the state. Dean H. L. Russell will address the conference on "The New Era in Beekeeping." Meetings will be held in the senate chamber of the state capitol.

PIERSON COMPLETES THIRD YEAR HERE

The third anniversary of the coming of Rev. H. G. Pierson to the local Baptist church was noted yesterday morning by the pastor. A strong sermon on "The Spirit of Forgiveness" was preached by him. He defined the difference between forgiveness and remission of penalty for sin, and showed how God forgave those whose spirit was like his, in that they were longer than Dolly Strang and Alfred Olsen sang a duet. The choir, directed by Mrs. Alice Thomas, sang an anthem. The every member conference committee met at 8:30 at the church to enjoy a luncheon and make plans regarding the work. It consisted of the following members: W. E. Clinton, chairman; O. D. Antisdal, Roger Cunningham, E. C. Jones, C. E. Richards, A. S. Kroft, L. C. Ciesley, J. C. Hanchett, Charles Chase, L. D. Barker, Roy Eller, J. T. Pritchett, W. H. Pelts, J. A. Olson, and Fred Scarellin.

Cold Weather Birds
By Adella Belle Beard
You will never believe unless you look for them, how many of our wild birds brave the cold weather and do not migrate south for the winter. The lists vary in different parts of the country and it is not possible to give them all here, but you can take the common winter birds of New York state to start with, then add or subtract as you identify the birds in your own locality. Among the most common birds is the Chickadee. He is round and plump and gray, has a black throat, and wears a black cap. The Chickadees gather in flocks and alighting on a tree, completely fill it. One sometimes sees a tree as full of Chickadees as a cherry tree is of cherries, and they hang on the twigs in much the same fashion, many of them completely up side down.

The Brown Creeper is in evidence, too. Small, slender, streaked brown above, white underneath, he darts quickly around the tree trunks, running up spirally.

The White-Breasted Nuthatch remains all winter. He has a small compact, rather flat, body, slate-gray above, pure white underneath, and the top of his head is black. You see him creeping over tree trunks, often head downward.

The Junco is about the size of a sparrow, rather thick body, dull slate-color all over except on lower breast which is grayish-white. The line between upper and lower breast is sharply defined, upper dark, lower light. The Juncos feed in flocks.

Last Christmas morning on a tree near my window, I counted five different kinds of wild birds, among them the Downy and Hairy Woodpeckers. These two look alike except that Hairy is longer than Downy. They are black and white, white underneath, and on the back of the head is a bright red patch.

Then there are the small, brown Tree Sparrow, and less often seen, the Snow Bunting, Horned Lark, and Golden-Crowned Kinglet.

How to Study Skillfully
What the Dictionary Tells
By Isabel W. Clayton
Do you know our big brother, the dictionary? If you do not know him, make his acquaintance at once. He is always willing to help you, but as he has so many people to help, you must let him know when you need help. He can help you in more ways than you realize.

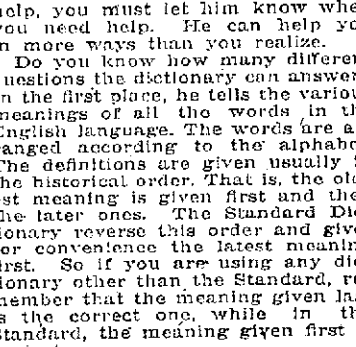

Do you know how many different questions the dictionary can answer? In the first place, he tells the various meanings of all the words in the English language. The words are arranged according to the alphabet. The definitions are given usually in the historical order. That is, the oldest meaning is given first and then the later ones. The Standard Dictionary reverse this order and gives for convenience the latest meaning first. So if you are using any dictionary other than the Standard, remember that the meaning given last is the correct one, while in the Standard, the meaning given first is correct.

The dictionary also tells us if the word begins with a capital letter, if it has a hyphen, how to pronounce it, how many syllables it has, what they are, what its history or etymology is, and what are its synonyms or other words with the same meaning. In it, too, are found the explanation of the noted characters of fiction, legend, and mythology, such as Rip Van Winkle, the Argonauts, and Achilles.

In the front of the dictionary, is a history of the English language with rules for spelling. In the back is a gazetteer. This is a list of geographical places. It tells us where the place is, how large it is, and how the name should be pronounced. In the back, too, is the biographical dictionary which contains the names of thousands of famous persons, a slight description of each and the dates of birth and death. If the date of the death is missing, it means that the person is still living. There is also a section in the back called Pictorial Illustration which contains pictures illustrating certain subjects such as architecture, war, mechanical devices, and many others.

Spent your next idle hour with the dictionary. You will be surprised to find how interesting it is.

POSTOFFICE OPENS SECOND WINDOW FOR SALE OF STAMPS

A second window for the sale of stamps, issued by general delivery mail and the receiving of parcel post, was opened at the postoffice this afternoon. Business hours for the window were announced as between 3:30 p. m. and 5:30 p. m. If circumstances demand the lengthening of hours now decided upon efforts will be made to extend them. E. J. Cunningham, postmaster, announced this morning. An insufficient force of office help was given as the reason regular hours could not be established at this time.

Both windows will be open the entire day during the holiday rush and it is believed that this will aid materially in relieving the congestion and confusion experienced at that time.

Never Intend to Be Without It

Ball Restored to Health Four Years Ago By Taking Tanlac—Good Effects Continue

"Give me a bottle of Tanlac," said Edward Ball, a well known farmer who resides on Route 3 Box 8, Duluth, Minn., while in Abbott's Drug Store in Duluth, a few days ago, "I do not really need it now, as I was entirely relieved of all my troubles some time ago by Tanlac, but I have made up my mind never to be without it in my house as long as I can get it," continued Mr. Ball.

"For two years," he went on, "I suffered with the worst kind of stomach trouble. I had scarcely any appetite, and what little I did manage to force down would sour on my stomach and almost after every meal I would become so nauseated I could not retain a thing. Gas would form on my stomach and I would suffer terribly. To add to my troubles I was taken with rheumatism in my limbs and my knees joints and I was in such a bad fix I could hardly get up and down."

"I was in Big Bay, Mich., at the time the rheumatism started and I sent to Duluth for some Tanlac as I had heard so much of it. I began to get better right from the start, and I continued taking it until I had taken six bottles, and, believe me, I felt just like a new man. My stomach got in fine shape and I had a fine appetite and could eat anything I wanted without it hurting me. The least bit, and my rheumatism left me entirely. This was four years ago ever since, but I always keep Tanlac handy and every now and then I take a little, for I believe it will keep a person in good health. I am glad to make this statement in the hope that it will help some one else who may be suffering as I was."

THE NEWSPAPERS' EXPENSE PROBLEM.

The public receives its greatest service, cost considered, from the daily newspapers. In no other business has so much thought and conscientious effort been devoted to the problem of giving much for little. How the world's news could be collected and printed daily and sold for two or three pennies has ever been the marvel of laymen. Only the most careful management has made it possible.

Two years ago it became apparent that the one-cent paper must go. Even in peace times it was hard to make headway at such a price, and the war rendered it impossible. The price had to go up, else publishers would have been forced out of business.

Conditions are again demanding serious thought from anxious-minded publishers. Print paper is now selling at three times the old prices, and it is hard to get at any price. The forests that supply the raw material for pulp are melting away. Canada, which exports much paper, is growing more careful. The wood on crown lands has been reserved from the axes of the paper mill operators.

The decrease in stocks and the accompanying increase in prices means an inevitable increase in the selling price to readers. It cannot be avoided in any conceivable way. Newspapers perhaps at five cents, are coming.

Everything that goes into the production of newspapers has gone up steadily in the past two years. Labor, rents, materials of all kinds, have been soaring. Remarkable prosperity the country over has increased the volume of advertising, but this bulk of additional space has brought new perplexities. Paper on which to print the advertising is next to impossible to get, and the cost of getting together large papers is heavy.

Advertising space is not selling for enough to keep the publishing business on a sound footing. Here, too, prices must advance if the situation is to be saved.

Newspapers, like food and transportation, have become necessities. They deserve adequate support, and must have it to live.

THE RIGHT OF FREE SPEECH.

In holding that the freedom of speech guaranteed by the constitution is subject to limitations a justice of the United States court of appeals defines as law just what common sense dictates law should be.

In the case in which decision was rendered the defendant had obstructed the operation of the draft law by asserting that men were fools to enter the army, and, when brought to bar for his utterances, set up the constitutional guarantee against the abridgement of freedom of speech as his defense.

The court held that conditions of war subject individual rights to qualification. Thus, if the accused in peace had a right to talk as he did, he lost it in war. It is the view of the court that speech that might be permissible in peace may be prohibited in war. It would seem to follow also that there ought to be some exceptions to the freedom of speech in time of peace, though it might be exceedingly difficult to establish the line between what is proper and that which is outside the pale of the constitutional warrant. Of course freedom of speech at no time includes the privilege of uttering that which is indecent or of advocating an act which is unlawful.

It is sometimes true that what appears to be the proper limit of free speech may seem to be transgressed, yet an attempt to restrain such utterances by legal procedure might work greater injury than good. Yet there is another class that takes advantage of our free speech leniency for whom grace should not be granted.

It seems clear that it was never intended that this provision of the constitution should extend to permission to anarchists to advocate the destruction of government and civilization as well, and that would apply in peace as well as in war. Liberty does not mean license and freedom of speech should not include permission to advocate doctrines that are subversive of law and morals. Yet in applying the measure to determine on which side of the line an utterance lies, care must be exercised that only a just and legal zeal be used lest we err in restricting improperly a bulwark of our liberties.

MUST GIVE UP OUR DEAD.

At last there is official encouragement for the parents and other near kin who have been pleading for the return of their soldier dead. From Washington comes the announcement that the United States embassy at Paris has been instructed by the state department to make "the strongest representations possible" to the French government for the removal of bodies of American soldiers now buried in France. Coupled with this is the expressed hope that an understanding will be reached to enable the war department to undertake as speedily as possible the return of bodies where desired by relatives. This is the action which has been anxiously awaited since the ending of the war.

The Washington announcement conveys the further information that the French government has been told that its continued refusal would have an "unfavorable impression" upon the American people. But this is putting it mildly, for the facts are that a bitter feeling his radical admirers. What impresses the country is

DECISION.

They shall not write in future years That we forgot our women's tears: Of us it never shall be said That we were false to our dead! We that have conquered for the truth Shall pass that glory to our youth.

Shall we who once have done our best Now falter at another test? Shall we whose glorious sons have died In Freedom's cause turn aside And fail in faith and sacrifice— Which always have been freedom's price?

Stand fast, wherever you may be, For God and home and liberty! Stand fast, nor falter now nor swerve, No selfish interest you serve, To all they desire you be true. God knows we still have work to do!

Now for the glory of our race, For home and all its tender grace, Your children's laughter and your toil, Your right to own a patch of soil, Be ready, when shall come the call To serve the flag, lest it shall fail.

We'll fight sweet Freedom's battles still! No traitorous tongue shall shake our will! Free men have placed our flag in air And free men long shall keep it there. We must win with our sword and pen To stain the justice of our age.

that Berger has been excluded from congress by simple application of a wise provision of the constitution which provides that "each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members."

was endangered at the very outset when it was declared that the French government was responsible for the delay, and this bitterness has been growing steadily ever since.

The parents and next of kin of at least 40,000 of the 65,000 American dead have requested the return of their bodies to the homeland. Add to these the other relatives and the thousands of sympathizing friends, and the computation shows a great host united in demanding the return of their loved and lost. This is the pressure that will bring about favorable action on the part of the French government—and the sooner this is done the better it will be for the continuance of the friendly relations now existing between the two countries.

BERGER AND THE CONSTITUTION.

There will be little diversity of opinion in this country as to the impudent "platform" on which Victor Berger again appeals for election to congress from the Fifth district of Wisconsin. Most of that platform is anti-constitution; the remainder is lunacy. One plank declares "against the impudent presumption by any clique or party of the house of representatives to dictate whom the district is to elect as its representative."

Since the vote against seating him was 309 to 1, his inferential charge that he was the victim of vindictiveness by a clique or party will have no weight even with Lieutenant Nungesser, French ace, who brought down 21 German airships, has entered newspaper work, which may give him an opportunity to bring down a great many verbal airships, from time to time.

Some chemists claim to have discovered how to make silks from sawdust, and it is predicted that when the process is perfected stockings can be sold for 50 cents a pair. If that works out woman will no longer yearn for anything so cheap as silk stockings.

Because that modern Jesse James who is terrorizing train passengers out west is very polite is no reason why he should expect the possum who are on his trail to do an Alphonse.

Prohibition is making new police history in Janesville. All previous records were blown to atoms today when Chief Thomas Morrissey issued his report for the month of November. Only 23 arrests were made, the lowest number in the annals of the police department.

But for the presence of "private stocks" and "wood" alcohol the number of arrests might have been but 15. The low record is attributed by the police to the growing state of affairs and the banishment of "two and three-quarters."

The largest month on record at the police department is that of October. During the month 249 arrests were made, the majority of them in connection with a grand jury investigation. This was during George Appleby's term of office as chief of police.

Chief Morrissey and Desk Sgt. Harvey Jones lead in the number of arrests made in the month just closed with 5 each. Other officers made arrests as follows: Webber 4, O'Leary 2, King 2, P. D. Champion, George Champion, Harmon, Myers, and Ward 1 each.

Arrests were made during the month on the following charges: Drunkenness 6, suspects 4, speeding 1, burglary 1, violation of parking ordinance 2, robbery 1, assault and battery 1, out-of-town 1, manslaughter 1, and violating traffic ordinance 1.

CONSERVATION OF COAL IS URGED

Minnesota, North and South Dakota, northern Iowa, and upper Michigan. Only such industries as are absolutely essential to the maintenance of life will receive coal. All others will have to close down as soon as the present stocks are depleted. In most instances these will be within a week, and some within a few days.

Non-Union Workers in Mines
Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 1.—For the first time in more than a generation an attempt was made today to operate as non-union the union coal mines in the Pittsburgh district where 42,000 miners have been idle. The attempt to resume operations was based on the 14 percent increase.

Curfew Law Is Ordered
Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 1.—Reduction of business hours, curfewment of streets car service and the closing of schools were among fuel conservation measures in effect here today. They were adopted yesterday by the city's fuel committee, members of which will meet late today with the regents of the University of Nebraska to discuss the university's fuel situation. The university is to close to help save coal.

14 Percent Order Not Heeded
Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 1.—Little attention was paid by miners to the notices of Iowa coal operators of the 14 percent increase in wages. In all cases the miners refused the scramble for coal continued. In Des Moines business was resumed after all places, including drug stores, churches and public buildings, were closed yesterday on order of the fuel distribution authorities. Non-essential industries may continue so long as their fuel supply is maintained, street car service is curtailed here. Schools are closed.

Some Mines Operate
Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 1.—Operation in the New River coal fields continued today while the mines of the Kanawha district remained closed. Operators said the miners in the latter district apparently had no intention of returning to work.

Volunteer Diggers Arrive
Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 1.—Wearing army uniforms, the first contingent of the volunteer workers who are to dig coal in the strip pit mines of the Pittsburgh field arrived here early today.

Eight Return to Work
Joliet, Ill., Dec. 1.—Eight men returned to work at the Skinner mine in Bradford today. A meeting will be held this afternoon which probably will result in the rest of the force about 40 to 50 men returning to work. This is the first break in the union ranks in the Williamson coal district.

RAILROADS PREPARE FOR CHRISTMAS RUSH

Christmas holiday traffic this year on the railroads will be even more unusually heavy than last year, according to a bulletin just issued by the railroad administration. The movement of mail, parcel post and express shipments will be enormous and there is a heavy concentration of a large passenger traffic.

To satisfactorily meet this demand railroads are now being made throughout the country of the requirements of business and the equipment and power needed to avoid overcrowding and delay. All repairs to passenger trains are being expedited. Special attention is being given to inspecting and cleaning cars for the rush. Even the dining cars are being completely overhauled. Supplies will be on hand and all the necessary help provided. The same applies to station restaurants and lunch counters.

Temporary increases will be made in storage facilities and the handling of baggage, mail and express to avoid the congestion of passenger freight houses and other adjacent buildings will be used for this purpose. Ticket offices, where required, will be open at night with additional employees to take care of the sale of tickets. Handling baggage and mail and giving out information. Passengers will be induced to buy tickets in advance to avoid crowding being windows.

"On time" operation will be resorted to where essential with second sections where advisable.

WEBBER RESIGNS AS POLICEMAN; SHUMAN NAMED SUCCESSOR

Officer Charles Webber resigned his duties as a member of the police department Saturday night to take another position. He had been on the day and night "beat" since entering the police force six months ago. He was replaced by Officer Shuman, one of the most efficient and painstaking officers in the department.

Edward Shuman, ex-soldier and a resident of the city and town of Janesville for many years, succeeded Mr. Webber today. An auto driver with six years' experience, he later will be given the position as day driver of the police patrol ambulance.

OSHKOSH PRIEST IS GIVEN NEW CHARGE

Oshkosh, Dec. 1.—Rev. James C. Hogan, pastor of St. John's Catholic church in this city, has been transferred to Stevens Point, after serving the local church since 1905. He takes the place of Father Rice, whose church edifice recently was destroyed by fire and who felt he could not, at his age, continue his duties. He is being replaced by Father Hogan recently wined out all indebtedness of the local church and his parish greatly regrets his departure. A new pastor, Father Mortel of Waupaca will be transferred here to fill Father Hogan's place.

Sugar Season Closes
Marquette.—The 1919 season of the Menominee River sugar company is drawing to a close, the last sugar beets having been cut. This year the company has produced the amount of beets produced. However, the sugar will not equal that of last year, because the crops this year were not of the same quality.

Voice of the People

To the Editor:
Please have your legal department or the city engineer in mind the necessary requirements to be used in extending the city beyond the present limits.

In conversation with those who hear of such talk, I find such a diversified opinion that I thought it would be a good thing to let the people know what powers were vested in the city by statute placed in the hands of the corporate.

SUBSCRIBER.

ANSWER.
The city of Janesville was incorporated under the laws of the state of Wisconsin, which provides that any city or village incorporated under the laws of the state of Wisconsin shall be a corporation in the manner as provided by law.

It is first of all necessary that a petition be presented to the common council of the city, asking for the annexation of such territory; this petition must be signed by at least one-half of the owners of the real estate within the limits of the territory proposed to be annexed. The council has no power to proceed until such petition shall be on file.

At the next meeting of the council after the filing of the petition an ordinance may be introduced and passed by a vote of three-fourths of all the members of the council. If the ordinance does not pass, the council may at any time after the filing of the petition, and before the ordinance is passed, withdraw the petition and file a new one.

When the matter finally comes up before the council in final action, it must be passed by a vote of three-fourths of all the members of the council. If the ordinance does not pass, the council may at any time after the filing of the petition, and before the ordinance is passed, withdraw the petition and file a new one.

Roger G. Cunningham,
City Attorney.

To the Editor:
I wish to take exception to the statement of Mrs. Helms, who said that the Rock County Sugar company was saying: "It had been the policy of Captain Davidson to distribute the sugar through the city's first contingent of the public instead of selling to the wholesale houses or the milk condensaries."

If that is their policy, why were the Rock County Sugar company who visited the factory this week, trying to buy a carload of sugar, refused the right to buy? I fail to understand how any one could say that the Rock County Sugar company was saying: "It had been the policy of Captain Davidson to distribute the sugar through the city's first contingent of the public instead of selling to the wholesale houses or the milk condensaries."

Also the retail grocer. Then the farmer is gradually permitted to buy sugar at a price which is higher than the price at which the retailer may choose to ask.

READER.

To the Editor:
The necessity for conserving electricity is urged upon the public by forbidding electric signs to blaze through the evening. Is it not better to cut out the street lights than to shut off the street lights later? What is the city doing about garbage collecting? Many weeks ago the collector who was supposed to collect the garbage was coming, saying the city was going to attend to garbage, but the garbage is piled high and no one comes for it.

Heart and Home Problems

By ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 18 years old and am deeply in love with a married man. When you know the circumstances I know you will not be shocked.

His wife is an invalid. Two months after they were married she was in a street car wreck and her spine was injured so that she can never walk again. He has to lift her from her bed to a couch and back again. He has become so tired of it and discouraged that he hates to go home. He calls it the hospital.

He is a big fellow, so full of life and health and loves outdoor sports. I think it is cruel that he has to be tied to that sick room. I am young, good-looking and we are perfectly matched. He says he has no cause that will free him.

He and I have had a few happy hours together. There was no harm. As he lay on the grass with his head in my lap he said I had given him out at home. I want to ease his burden and I know you will say there is no harm in my motive.

I go to see his wife and she thinks I am a friend of both of them. She worships him and when she talks about him I get terribly jealous for I feel by rights he does not belong to her. Their souls are not in harmony as ours are.

Some gossips went to my father and mother and started a fuss. There are always some old gossips starting stories. We are going next Sunday for a ride in the country. He says he is nervous and won't cut out at home. Please advise me what to do. I get no sympathy from home.

SPOILED WATERS.
Your desire has overpowered your judgment. There is a greater intelligence than your own which has mated the man and his wife. Now the man has been given a burden to bear and the greatest help you can give him will be to stay away from him and not encourage him to neglect his duty.

I would advise you to go away as your father wishes. Have faith that what is yours will come to you. If you do the honorable thing your life will be far richer than if you spoil it in the beginning by stealing another woman's husband.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girls 17 years old. We are engaged to two nice boys and are to be married soon. We are planning for a double wedding. We are seniors at high school and expect to be married in June. Do you think we are too young to marry? Would you advise us to wait for a year or more? Our mothers know nothing of our engagements. We are sure of our love, but we want advice from you. We do not want our mothers to know anything about this, and we are undecided what to do.

SISSY AND SALLY.
Yes, you are too young to marry now. Talk your engagements over with your mothers. You will be cheating yourselves if you do not, because a mother can suggest much that is helpful at such a time.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 17. For a long time, four months I have gone with a very fine young man. He doesn't seem to care for me. I have invited him to parties and he has always accepted. Do you think it is proper to invite him to call on me?

He doesn't go with any girl, although there are many who would go with him.

Is it all right for me to give a boy a ride home from school if he lives near me?

Do not invite the young man to call or to any more parties. If he cares for you he will do the inviting. You cannot force him to care for you. The harder you try the less he will care for you.

Yes, it is all right to give a boy a ride home from school if he lives near you.

She Married an Average Man

By ZOE BECKLEY.

Why I should have thought of Fanny Friable at that minute I hardly know. I had not given a thought to her since Eric Sands mentioned her name as that of the theatre with which I was away. What I told Eric at the time covered precisely what I felt—that Jim had as much right to keep up his old acquaintance with Mrs. Friable as I had to be walking and talking to him, Eric.

I have not had a shadow of a jealous thought concerning this woman since that day, long ago, before we left Centerville, when I found Jim buying her a purse for a Christmas gift.

She's the wife of the man who gave me my first job. Jim had explained. And that's all there was to it, dismissed it from my mind.

When Eric mentioned her I had had some thought of speaking of it to Jim. By the time I got to it the thing seemed too trivial.

The Friables were doubtless in New York for a visit or something, and my husband had accompanied the wife of his old friend for an evening's entertainment. Jim is always reticent. He never "chums" with me, never tells me little happenings in his day's work. And I have trained myself to do without his confidence, finding interests of my own, filling in all my time with work—and Oh, how dear that work has grown to me!

As I write all this I wonder if an unassuming wife is a rare bird. I find myself only tepidly interested in the strange phenomena of Jim's agitation at my remark last night. I made a little shot in the dark—a mere jest—about his being in love with the stenographer or something. And Jim appears disconcerted. I feel like a person walking in an unlighted room, stumbling blindly across some unguessed-at object and feeling a natural curiosity to find out what it is and how it came there.

My attitude is as unlike jealousy as if I were a person sitting in a chair following the thread of an exceedingly human play.

Once upon a time I should have felt a shock of resentment at the mere thought of my husband being interested in another woman. Now I find myself being gradually convinced that work—congenial work—is love's counterweight. That, nine times out of ten, the woman who takes joy in her occupation and is independent though such occupation can never be overwhelmed by the loss of love.

In other words, woman's love is often separable from her livelihood. Unconsciously she clings to her man with a feeling of jealous possessiveness. He is her provider. How dare he divide what rightfully belongs to her with another woman. She mistakes her rage for her love. My washwoman said to me the other morning, wiping her reddened eyes: "Lor, Mrs. Salsbery, I ain't no misfortunate, after all. I've had two husbands, m'am, an' they both left me to shift for myself an' the kids. When Sam went I soon it wasn't so much Sam I was grievein' fer as Sam's pay envelope. Once I got it inter my hand that I didn't have to be took care of, I felt reel happy an' independent like. There ain't no feelin' quite so exhilaratin' as havin' your pocketbook an' your room all to yourself an' no questions asked." And there is a good deal of truth in Maggie's philosophy. Nevertheless, I shall ask Jim about Tanny Friable. (To be continued.)

A heavy concentration on ages ending in five and zero are always reported at a census. The census bureau has made many efforts to overcome this inaccurate tendency on the part of the people when stating ages.

THE BUTLER HALVES.
London, Eng. — The tendency among married women to combine profession or trade with their domestic duties is noticeable in England, but much more so abroad. In Denmark particularly it is almost a matter of course for married women to seek employment outside the home, of which now settled customs a striking illustration is the decision of Miss Zelle, the wife of the Danish Prime Minister, to take employment as a government typist. When the day ever come when No. 1 Downing street will furnish a similar recruit to the fair army that daily invades Whitehall?

KING BOOTS NAVY TO 6-0 VICTORY OVER WEST POINT

Polo Grounds, New York, Dec. 1.—The Navy wrote another upset into the 1919 football season by defeating the Army here Saturday by the score of 6 to 0. The Army came on the field of battle a favorite, but at no stage of the game did the West Pointers seriously menace the Navy's goal.

The Annapolis score was represented by two boots from placement. King, right tackle for the midshipmen, was the hero of the day, for both goals were kicked by him.

The midshipmen showed superiority over the cadets in all departments of the game. At the final foot of the whistle, the midshipmen with one accord hurled their golden megaphones into the air. It was like a shower of sparks descending on the field. Then for the Navy came a glorious rush to mid-field and a rally around the colors. Cheering madly, the midshipmen, their seafaring goat stamping proudly at their head, passed in triumph procession under the Army's goal post.

Cadets Good Losers.
The cadets took their beating like the soldiers they are, facing the Navy's music until the last note of the gridiron celebration had ended. Remaining with them were their leaders, Secretary Baker and General Pershing and March, who, with Secretary Daniels of the victors, followed every play with the zest of youth.

Forty-five thousand pilgrims from north, south, east and west fought their way into the Polo Grounds. Officers in khaki and blue, straight from the scenes of strenuous warfare; cadets and midshipmen yet to sniff the smoke of their battle, faced each other across the white-chalked oblong of green.

There was not a moment of silence during the game. The fact that the Navy had the edge on the play only seemed to rouse the cadets to greater frenzy, while the midshipmen roared themselves hoarse. The cadets introduced an innovation with the firing of a small field piece at the opening of each period.

Women to Back Chautauqua.
Manitowoc—The local Federation of Women's Clubs has voted to support a chautauqua for this city for next year. A resolution was adopted asking all other organizations of the city to co-operate with a committee named by the federation for the formulation of plans for the erection of a fitting memorial to the soldiers.

FAMILY REUNION IS HELD IN MILTON

[By Gazette Correspondent.]
Milton, Nov. 30.—The Thorngate-Rood family met in annual reunion in the parlors of the Seventh Day Baptist church Thanksgiving day. Forty-nine of them were family connections, and there were eight other invited guests. The hosts of the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Low, Grandall, and daughter, the Thanksgiving program of songs and talks.

Of those present the following were from out of town: Mr. and Mrs. Hestia W. Rood, Madison; Lieut. George Thorngate, David Smith, and the Misses Cecile and Ada Crandall, university students, Madison; the Misses Dorothy Wheeler, Boulder, Col.; Helen Shaw, New York; Alpha and Vesta Thorngate, North Loup, Neb.; Marguerite Thorngate, Excel, and Miss Eling Wang, Shanghai, China; Milton college students: Dr. Rose Palmberg, medical missionary, Shanghai; Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Crandall, and daughter, Kathleen, Elk Point, S. Dak.; Mr. and Mrs. George H. Crandall, Indianapolis; Mrs. Merrill, Birmingham, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Rood and Seymour Clarke, Racine; Mr. and Mrs. Martin Nelson and daughters, Clara, Vergie, and Julia, Walworth; J. H. Thorngate, Berlin; Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Rood and son, Wayne, Lake Geneva.

A. E. Garay, Edgerton, visited Milton friends Friday.

Will Johnston, Chicago, has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Clarke.

J. K. Lynd, Eau Claire, was in town Friday.

H. Giese and the Misses Esther and Freda Giese, Juda, spent Thanksgiving with R. B. Mose.

The Holmes families are their Thanksgiving turkey with E. A. Holmes and wife.

Bowling Tournaments Grow.
Manitowoc—The entry list for the 1920 bowling tournament is growing every day. The prospects are bright for breaking all previous records for a state tournament. A number of week-end parties have been staged by the bowlers from nearby cities and the visitors have been greatly pleased with the new layout here. There are ten alleys without a post of any kind in the city to obstruct the view. Sheboygan will enter 35 teams.

Gets 200-Pound Buck.
Manitowoc—Herman Diskewsky, a local hunter, has returned from Moor with a buck that weighs 200 pounds dressed, with a set of antlers that are perfect. More than 20 deer have been brought to the city this far.

10 HENS LAY 8 EGGS ADAY. HOW IT'S DONE

Mr. Davis Shows How to Wake Up Idle Hens. Easily Tried.

"I have 10 hens and was getting 1 and 2 eggs a day. Since using Don Sung, my hens have improved so much that I am now getting 7 and 8 eggs a day. The results have been wonderful."—Henry Davis, 1324 30th St., Newport News, Va.
Mr. Davis wrote this letter in February, after a severe test in the coldest weather. Try it, as he did, and watch your hens stop loafing and start laying. Here's our offer:
Give your hens Don Sung and watch results for one month. If you don't find that it pays for itself and pays you a good profit besides, simply tell us and your money will be promptly refunded.

Don Sung (Chinese for egg-laying) works directly on the egg-laying organs, and is also a splendid tonic. It is easily given in the food, improves the hen's health, makes her stronger and more active in any weather, and starts her laying.
Try Don Sung for 30 days and if it doesn't get you the eggs, no matter how cold or wet the weather, your money will be refunded by return mail. Get Don Sung from your druggist or poultry remedy dealer, or send 50 cents for a package by mail prepaid. Burrell-Dugger Co., 249 Columbia Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.
